A RESOLUTION TO STOP USING ANIMALS IN CIRCUSES

WHEREAS: According to the Humane Society of The United States, "Circus training methods include beating animals with clubs and other objects while depriving them of food."

WHEREAS: An investigation conducted by PETA shows the cruel forms of abuse towards animals. PETA Asia's investigator documented that bear cubs are chained or tethered to a wall and forced to remain upright, sometimes for hours, in order to train them to walk on their hind legs. If they can't hold themselves up, they risk choking and hanging themselves.

WHEREAS: Risks of death of animals due to these types of abuse are extremely high. With the high risks, animals in the circus use many animals.

WHEREAS: According to MSPCA, animals respond aggressively to abuse, injuring their handlers, trainers, and even the public. They occasionally escape from their train cars or their temporary enclosures, risking fatal traffic accidents and injuries to themselves, and others.

WHEREAS: Abuse can not only harm animals themselves, but also innocent bystanders.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the Student Congress here today that circuses immediately stop using animals.
